

The Next Generation of Workspaces Network

About the NGWN

The Next Generation Workspaces Network (UQ Initiative) is a unique coalition of leading researcher, industry and government partners committed to accelerate development of innovative physical and virtual workspace-related solutions that enable organisations to achieve their productivity, workforce well-being and agility requirements.

Funded by UQ, NGWN aims to address organisations' and workers' needs in a rapidly changing workplace environment. The network comprises of over 50 UQ academics from multiple disciplines and engaging 27 industry organisations. This network enables us to collaboratively pinpoint essential workforce requirements and work together to develop innovative solutions and capabilities. Also, the network seeks funding opportunities to co-create solutions to organisational challenges in physical and virtual workspaces.
